

conscience
casserole

This season, when water and weather have made hash of so many lives, we decided to test a new recipe for holiday giving. So we've cooked up a way for you to stuff your shirt – by giving you a chance to have a big heart.

Here's a five-spot. Will you pass it on to those in a tight spot?

You can send it alone, add a few bills to it, or put it in your own wallet. You can give it to an established charity, to a homeless person on the street, to your church or synagogue... Let your conscience be your guide.

In the meantime, we've put our heart into this business, and we appreciate you putting your shoulder to the wheel to help us make it. We're proud to have you put our shirt on your back, and we hope you'll wear it in good health in 2006.
